RESPONSIBLUE UPDATES

The University of Michigan's ResponsiBLUE app has been updated to include new features that better support the health and safety of the University of Michigan community during the pandemic. The app now includes additional information on COVID-19 protocols, resources and care, and a new results screen. Additional COVID-19 testing features were also added for undergraduate students, but those changes will only display if you are an undergraduate student.

The main change most Michigan Medicine staff will notice is a large red X that will display at the top of the screen if your screening check result has expired. Previously, the red X only appeared if you reported having symptoms for COVID-19. Screening check results expire after 18 hours. Click on the "Screening Check Required" link to access the screening questions and renew your daily screening requirement.

INTERNATIONAL TRAVEL

As of Jan. 26, 2021, the CDC expanded the requirement for a negative COVID-19 test to all air passengers entering the United States. As detailed at the CDC Testing and International Air Travel page, requirements include:

- International air passengers are required to get a COVID-19 test within the three days before their flight to the U.S. departs, and provide written documentation of their laboratory test result (paper or electronic copy) to the airline or provide documentation of having recovered from COVID-19.
- Get tested within 72 hours after travel AND stay home for 7 days after travel.
 - Even if you test negative, stay home for the full 7 days.
 - If you don't get tested, stay home for 10 days after travel.

CDC requirements for quarantine and testing following international travel will apply to all U-M workforce members, including Michigan Medicine workforce members. Workforce members should contact Occupational Health Services (OHS) following their return from international travel and provide their COVID-19 test results. OHS does not provide testing for personal travel.

At this time, there are no work restrictions for workforce members who return from recent domestic travel.

OHS can be reached at (734) 764-8021 from 7am-5pm 7 days/week or at occupational-health@med.umich.edu.
